LOST ANOTHER HORSE.

(Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat.) Troubles sometime follow thick and fast, and in the loss of work horses
within the last few months Aris Throckmorton has had his share. Sunday he lost another good work horse.
The animal was in apparent good health, and that morning had eaten heartily of hay and corn. A few hours afterward it was found lying down near the barn and closer examination revealed it was dead. Mr. Throckmorton has lost by death four good and useful work horses within the last eight months.

CITY ASSESSORSHIP

James Stewart Resigns, Having Registered and Voted in Cincinnati.

Councilman Thomas M. Russell,
chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; City Attorney John M.
Calhoun, and Chief of Police James Mackey were in Cincinnati Saturday to ascertain whether or not Mr. James Stewart, city assessor-elect, was a voter in the Queen City.

Mr. Stewart's name was soon found on the registration book and the investigating committee made an engagement with Mr. Stewart to discuss the matter.

Mr. Stewart wrote out his resignation after City Attorney Calhoun explained that he was ineligible for the office. A new assessor will be elected at the next meeting of City Council.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION

Of the Maysville Chamber of Commerce Established With Twenty-Five Businesses Represented

Last Wednesday night at the Chamber of Commerce meeting held in the Council Chamber, the Credit Association of the Maysville Chamber of Commerce was formed, there being twenty-five different business houses represented, and all signified their intention of taking membership in the Credit Association, and since the meeting the secretary-manager has been informed by quite a number of other merchants and business men of their intention to join the association, a great many of them stating that they would have attended the meeting but were prevented by some unavoidable causes. There will be another meeting of the Credit Association held in the Council Chamber Tuesday night,
February 29, at 7:30 promptly.

At this meeting further discussion of the details of the Credit Association will be had and any questions that any one wishes to ask will be answered. The rating information blanks will be distributed to members of this meeting. These blanks will call for the following information on the party who is rated: Name, address, occupation, how much he owes,
whether same is past due, the merchant's opinion as to the integrity of party rated, whether party rated meets installment payments, whether he is financially good or prompt pay-er, or safe to credit but slow pay, or pays but risky limited, or demand cash.

Each member of the association will be pledged to give a complete rating
upon each of his credit customers, whether they are good, medium or bad. Each member of the association will be recognized only by secret code by the secretary-manager and his assistants, and the information given by each member is treated strictly confidential insofar as the member's name is concerned.

For the information of the people at large, let it be understood that a credit association is not formed to do any one harm. It promotes nothing but what is absolutely fair and just to all. Should any differences arise between the debtor and the creditor, the secretary-manager will be glad to assist in bringing about a thorough understanding and settlement of same,
the motto "Equity and Justice to all and special privilege to none" best exemplifies the work of a Credit Association. It should be thoroughly understood that the members of the Credit Association have pledged their confidential treatment of all information and that no one not so pledged will be given any information concerning any one. It should be further understood that this is strictly a business proposition and plays no favorites; a person's rating will be just exactly as the experience of the business man designated; what is black will be black and what is white will be white.

The public service companies and several of the banks have already promised to co-operate with the Credit Association with a view of making the association a great success. No one except the secretary-manager and his assistants will have access to the association files.

REPUBLICANS MEET

AND SELECT DELEGATES TO AT-TEND NINTH DISTRICT CON-VENTION FEBRUARY 29
AT MT. STERLING.

Fairbanks Indorsed For President—
Cochran and Winn Indorsed For Delegates To National Convention.

The Republicans of Mason county, pursuant to call, met at the courthouse on Saturday, February 29, at 1 o'clock and elected delegates to attend the Ninth District convention, which meets at Mt. Sterling on February 29, and also elected delegates to attend the state convention which meets at Louisville on March 1.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Clarence Mathews, county chairman. C. E. Dietrich was appointed secretary pro tem.

The official calls were read, after which Hon. James M. Collins was elected permanent chairman of the convention and C. E. Dietrich secretary.

The following resolution, being introduced by Mr. Clarence Mathews, was then unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That all good Republicans be and they are made delegates to the district convention to be held at Mt.
Sterling, February 29, and to the state convention to be held at Louisville,
March 1, 1916;

Further, That the vote of Mason county be cast in the district convention for R. H. Winn of Montgomery, and W. D. Cochran of this county, as delegates from the Ninth district to the National convention to be held at Chicago in June for the purpose of nominating the Republican candidates for President and Vice President;

Further, That the vote of Mason county be cast in the district and state conventions for instructions for Hon.
Charles W. Fairbanks as Republican candidate for President.

After some discussion as to the best method of reaching Mt. Sterling, the convention adjourned.

The convention was a quiet, harmonious gathering of men who looked and acted as if they meant business.

In preparing bacon for you breakfast, it should be noticed that
"PARTRIDGE" Bacon, even though done to a turn, will retain its rich, golden color. This is one of the distinctions of "PARTRIDGE" Bacon, in that its very appearance on your breakfast table, crisp, tender, gold-

it can never fry dark. Order a pound today.

STUDENTS WHO FAIL.

Considerable surprise is expressed over the number of students recently dropped from Annapolis naval academy. There were eighty two who couldn't get 62.5 per cent in class room work. Some argue that the course is too severe. Others say the appointment system is wrong, admitting too many boys lacking the required capacity.

The dropping of a large number of students from higher institutions is, however, not unusual. A constant stream of the unfit is being cast out by the best colleges. It is done very quietly. The young people had come from their homes with many glorifications. They return after dark, "out of health." It's mental indolence, usually.

Colleges and technical and normal schools are in a position to make strict requirements. They are not subject to the limitations of the public schools. No politicians threaten them for cutting off the children of favorites. They are not dominated by hysterical people who often stir up a whole town over the failure of popular children to gain promotion.

About the only motive tending to lax standards in the higher institutions is the desire for mere bigness. This feeling is too common, it must be admitted. To many college faculties size seems the only solution of financial perplexities. Only with big classes, they feel, can they get the advertising of athletic success, and create a body of alumni to work for endowments.

The best advertising is a body of graduates who are making success. It can be had only by weeding out misfits. Thereby the failures are turned into fields of effort for which they are better qualified. Also they get a shock that is apt to arouse them to life's cold realities.

There are indications that President Wilson has changed his mind on one more governmental problem. A few months ago Assistant Postmaster George Burkitt of Winnetka, Ill., was discharged for expressing his personal opinion that the President should not have married so soon after the death of his first wife. The Postoffice Department confirmed this dismissal after what it termed a "full consideration of all the facts." Newspapers gave the affair some "pitiless publicity," which resulted in Burkitt's temporary reinstatement followed by President Wilson's peremptory order that he be fully restored to his former position. Now, however, Burkitt has been transferred to Chicago, which forces Burkitt to change his home or incur the expense of transportation. In view of the rebuke the postal authorities received in the first instance, it seems hardly creditable that they took the latest action without assurance of the President's approval. Burkitt will be wise if he fixes his gaze on a new job.

Officials of the Treasury Department are spending much more or less valuable time trying to defend the new form of daily treasury statement the adoption of which the saved the Democratic administration still worse embarrassment. Juggling the books not only deprives the people of information upon which useful comparisons can be made, but also costs the people something in the time taken by officials in defending it. A simple, consistent form of treasury statement should need no explaining and no defense.

It is hopeless to try to work the gold brick game on the farmers now, but the city people still think that vegetables like the seed catalogue cuts can be made to grow in their backyards.

A year or two ago people began to put the beef bone in the safe to secure it against thieves, but it looks this spring as if the room would be taken by the gasoline can.

One excuse advanced for Mr. Wilson's swing around the circle was that he wanted to explain what he meant by "too proud to fight." He failed, however, to explain.

Speaking of the weather reminds us that it continues to be just weather.

Even the buzzard, the lowliest of birds, is loyal to its home. Are you?

FAMOUS DUEL

Fought Between Two Congressmen
More Than Half Century Ago
—Rifle Preserved.

Among the relics in the National Museum at Washington there are few objects more replete with historical interest than the Deringer rifle used by Colonel David Crockett of Alamo fame. This same weapon was used by Congressman William J. Graves of Kentucky in the duel which he fought more than seventy-eight years ago with Jonathan Cilley, Congressman from New Hampshire, resulting in the latter's death.

The old gun is a 44-caliber muzzle-loading sporting rifle. The octagon rifled barrel is forty-five inches long and fitted with a full stock of curly maple, plain open sights, a percussion lock and a "set" trigger.

John C. Rives, who was one of the editors of the Congressional Globe, now the Congressional Record, knew many Congressmen, several of whom he was accustomed to take out for rifle practice to a field. Among his friends was David Crockett, pioneer, hunter, soldier and Congressman, who later lost his life at the Alamo in the Texas struggle for freedom. "Dave" Crockett was proud of his rifle, and often joined the shooting parties to keep himself in practice.

Early in February, 1838, Henry A. Wise of Virginia, presented to the House of Representatives a copy of the New York Courier and Enquirer, charging a member of Congress with corruption and asked for an investigation. He stated that the author of the article was vouched for by the editor, and that the House was called upon to defend its honor.

Jonathan Cilley, member from New Hampshire, opposed the resolution, and in debate said he thought it was the same editor who once made charges against a certain institution, and later received facilities amounting to $52,000 from the same institution, which he then gave his hearty support. A few days later, Colonel J. Watson Webb, the editor of the paper, addressed a note to Mr. Cilley, asking if he were the editor referred to, and if so, demanding an explanation.

This note was directly responsible for the duel between Mr. Cilley and Hon. William J. Graves of Kentucky, who undertook its delivery on the floor of the House for his friend Webb. Mr. Cilley refused to receive the note, declaring he chose not to be drawn into any controversy with Col. Webb, stating that by so doing he meant no disrespect to the bearer. He refused to affirm or deny anything in regard to Colonel Webb's character.

Mr. Graves was not satisfied, however, and several notes between them were exchanged, with the result that Mr. Graves finally challenged Mr. Cilley because he would not say whether he refused the note on the grounds of any personal exception to Col. Webb as a gentleman and a man of honor. Mr. Cilley denied Mr. Graves the right to demand an absolute "yes" or "no" answer, and accepted the challenge. It was to be a combat under the duello or code, upon a mere point of honor, there being no real difficulty between Graves and Cilley at any time.

Their seconds, George W. Jones, delegate from Wisconsin territory, for Cilley, and Henry A. Wise of Virginia for Mr. Graves, arranged the details for the duel, which was fought with rifles at a distance of about ninety yards, near the road to Marlborough, in Maryland. Mr. Wise experienced some difficulty in securing a rifle, but finally succeeded in borrowing Mr. Rive's Deringer rifle, which is now in the section of gunnery of the National Museum.

The duel was scheduled for 3 p. m., February 24, 1838, and the two parties met near the boundary line of the District of Columbia. A party of friends accompanied each of the principals, also their seconds. The ground was paced off and the contestants took their places with rifles cocked and triggers set.

Mr. Jones of Wisconsin gave the word. Cilley fired first and Graves a second or two after him, but both missed. Despite the efforts of their friends to adjust the matter after each had been exposed to the fire of the other, no satisfactory arrangement could be made, and the parties resumed their positions and exchanged shots again, also without effect. Still being unable to agree after further entreaties, they went to their positions for the third time. This time they fired very nearly together. Mr. Cilley was shot through the body and expired a few minutes later.

The Congressional Committee found Mr. Graves guilty of a breach of privilege in the House, but held that Mr. Cilley had remained within his rights. They recommended the expulsion of Mr. Graves from the House, and that the seconds and friends be censured. Such is the story of the Deringer rifle now to be seen in the National Museum.

WILSON EFFORT INEFFECTIVE.

Washington, D. C.—(Special Correspondence.)—Newspaper men who accompanied the President on his western speechmaking tour report that he returned to Washington very much pleased with the himself; that he feels himself better acquainted with the people and that the people now know him better; and that he displayed a much more "human" element on the return trip than he did while going out.

There is nothing unusual about this. Every spellbinder has experienced it. There is no intoxication like that which an applauding audience imparts. We all know candidates for office who have measured their vote, in advance of election day, by the cheers which they received while on the stump. Mr. Bryan has been described as a man who could get more cheers and fewer votes than any candidate who ever went before the people. This last statement is not quite true—for Mr. Bryan has always received more votes than Mr. Wilson got in 1912.

The success of the President's speeches is not to be measured, however, by their effect on the audiences who heard them—not yet by their effect on the people who will read them in the book form in which Congress has voted to put them out. The trip was made with one purpose chiefly in mind—to create a situation in the public mind which would react upon the rebellious Democrats in Congress who are refusing to follow the President in his program for preparedness. While it is, to be sure, a little early to determine just what the force of such a reaction is, it yet remains there are no signs at all of a weakening on the part of the recalcitrant Democrats who still believe that the Wilson of a year ago is the real Wilson, and who still hold to the theory that our military policy should not be changed because a few people are nervous and excited—these being the words which Mr. Wilson addressed to Congress in December, 1914.

These Democrats were prompt in replying, with a speech in Washington, to every speech that the President made while on his western tour. These men still declare that the folks "back home" are standing with them and not with the President, these men are still maintaining a position which will make it impossible for the President's program to be passed on by Democratic votes and which will result in throwing the responsibility and credit for whatever preparedness legislation is passed upon the Republicans.

Unless these men can be shifted from their present attitude, Mr. Wilson's tour will prove a failure, regardless of the personal pleasure which he derived from it. More than that, it will militate fatally against the President's campaign for re-election. Mr. Wilson has elected to push the question of national defense to the front and to stake his reputation as a party leader upon it. He has completely reversed himself within a few months, and the question which he dismissed with a sneer only a short time ago he now embraces with all the enthusiasm of a new convert. His language grew steadily stronger as his speech-making progressed, and he now stands, in words, at least, on ground as advanced as that of the most pronounced militarist in the country. But his party has not moved forward with him—and the question now is whether he can move his fellow-Democrats. It is regarded here as a certainty that mere speeches made at a distance from Washington will not avail for the purpose. It is problematical whether Mr. Wilson can accomplish his purpose by any other means.

OVER-WORKED MAN

Bank Cashier Almost a Wreck—How He Regained Strength.

Maysville people will realize that this is one more link in the wonderful chain of evidence proving that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, has no equal to create strength.

Mr. Charles A. Ogle, Monrovia, Md., says: "For many years I was a school teacher, then for three years was Deputy Clerk in Frederick County, Md., and for the last three years I have been Cashier of the First National Bank. My nerves got in such a bad condition, and with poor assimilation of food, I was fast becoming a physical and mental wreck. Seeing an advertisement for Vinol I purchased a bottle, and found it to be exactly what I needed. It has not only benefited my nerves, but built me up both mentally and physically, and I want to recommend it to any one suffering as I did."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Pecor Drug Company, Maysville, Ky.

MOVIE IS FIRST-CLASS PERFORMANCE, SAYS COURT.

New York.—The coming of motion pictures has resulted in an evolution of the theatrical business to such an extent, according to a court decision announced here, that a theater holding continuous performances of high-grade film pictures and musical numbers, may be regarded as a first-class playhouse in every respect. The State Supreme Court, in the decision, denied the application of owners of a Broadway theater for an injunction restraining the leasing company from operating continuous performances at popular motion picture prices. The injunction was asked on the ground that the theater was not operated by the lessee as a first-class playhouse.

WHEN PA BEGINS TO SHAVE.

But what a change has come about! Pa shaves 'most every day. He's got a DURHAM-DUPLEX now; a coupon showed the way. A DEMONSTRATOR put him wise. To all the time he'd save; Our house is like a playground now—When Pa begins to shave. He don't get mad, or rant around; He's mild as he can be. "I reckon the Millenium Has come," says Ma to me. An' Pa he says, "By heck, it has! For years I was a slave, But DURHAM-DUPLEX set me free! I've jest begun to shave."

THE PRESIDENT, SECRETARY GARRISON AND THE PHILIPPINE LEGISLATION.

Lindley M. Garrison, in his opposition to the proposed Philippine legislation, but voiced the views of millions of Democrats and of nearly all the Republicans of the United States. Three-fourths of the voters of this country do not believe that the Philippines are fitted for self-government, and we are positive that these agree with Mr. Garrison, as the President in his letter to the late Secretary of War appeared to do, that the proposed legislation is unwise.

As the President has the power to veto unwise legislation, and has admitted that in his opinion this proposed legislation is in that class, the country will not accept his view that it is unadvisable for him to oppose it if favored by both Houses of the Congress.

No legislation reaches him for signature but that which receives the approval of both Houses of the Congress.

The veto power was given him by the nation for the very purpose of defeating unwise legislation.

Its purpose was plain; its use in such cases beneficial, and how the President can reconcile his duty to the country when he deems it unwise, with his failure to oppose it by his counsel to the Democratic leaders, and veto it if they should pass it, is a momentous question between himself and the electorate.

The people of the United States are not in favor of giving the world another Haiti in the Philippines.

They are strenuously opposed to the delivering over of those islands which cost the nation so much treasure and so many lives of gallant American soldiers to reformers of the type of Aguinaldo, of Carranza, of Villa and others who have been the called and chosen of the idealists, who seem to be glorifying anarchy and political chaos under the name of liberty.

Mme. Roland's famous declaration as she ascended the scaffold, a victim of the Terrorists of France, "Oh, Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" epitomized the Mexican policy of this administration, and now, while the whole world is sick at heart at the human slaughter there, the Democratic administration is ready to open the door of the Philippines to the same class of political assassins who have made Mexico's entire domain but bloody shambles.

We sincerely hope for the credit and good name of this republic that the President will reconsider his statement as to the inadvisability of his opposing this unwise legislation. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mrs. Rundell, who early in the nineteenth century wrote a famous cookery book, refused to take anything for it, although her publisher was growing rich. Finally she accepted 150 pounds sterling, but nevertheless when she thought the publisher was neglecting her work she obtained an injunction against him and transferred the rights to a more active firm, accepting another thousand pounds and a like sum to cover her law costs.

BUYING GOOD HOGS

Several Nearby Farmers Stocking
Their Farms Preparatory To Improving the Quality of Their Hogs.

(Augusta Chronicle.)

Albert Byersdorfer and son, Wilbur, of Brown county, O., opposite Augusta, returned Tuesday from Wapakoneta, O., where they attended the F. O. Brown sale of Poland China registered hogs. Mr. Byersdorfer said that he was under the impression that he had seen some good hogs in this section, but after attending his sale he has changed his mind. He saw a 21-month-old hog that weighed 925 pounds, and it was not done growing. While at this sale he purchased two Poland China sows, due to farrow the early part of March, and he expects to improve the quality of the swine in this vicinity, provided the farmers want to do so. He paid a fancy price for these hogs and both are registered. Mr. Byersdorfer is a progressive and up-to-date farmer and if more of our people will follow his lead in this direction much good will be accomplished. Vern Shinkle, also of Brown county, O., during the past few days received two fancy Hampshire hogs—male and female—both registered—which he will use for breeding.

LOST A FORTUNE.

Chicago, February 28.—In the course of testimony in an unimportant civil suit here today it appeared that the Chicago club of the Federal League lost about $27,000 during the season of 1914.

The suit was filed by James L. Sherlock, a stockholder in the Federal League, as it existed in 1913, against the new Federal League which developed in 1914, with James A. Gilmore as president, and which in 1915 declared itself a major league.

Thomas W. Gilmore, secretary to Charles Weeghman, who controlled the Chicago club in the Federal League in 1914-1915, gave the testimony as to money lost in 1914. As Sherlock's case was for $1,000 to have been paid him in case the club made money in 1914, Gilmore's testimony was to a deficit brought about a nonsuit of the case.

WOMAN RUNS FARM.

Denver, Colo.—Evelyn Lawrence is the owner and resident manager of a 3,840 acre ranch in eastern Colorado, and besides doing all of the work in connection with that task that a man would do, she finds time to be a delegate to political conventions, make speeches before women's clubs and take frequent trips to hear the latest operas and keep in touch with the busy life of the world. Her husband was one of the best known men in Oklahoma, and the family came to Colorado to engage in ranching. When Mr. Lawrence died, his wife took up the management and made a success of it.

SECRETARY LANE FINDS NO ACTUAL SHORTAGE IN OIL AND INTIMATES OTHER CAUSE FOR HIGH COST OF GAS- OLINE.

Washington, D. C.—Contentions that the prices of gasoline are being maintained artificially at their present unprecedented high level, and that the big advance to the public is not due to any actual shortage of the crude product appear to be well substantiated by the facts contained in the report relative to production, consumption and price of gasoline recently submitted to the United States Senate by Secretary Franklin K. Lane of the Department of the Interior.

The report covers fifteen specific questions contained in a resolution introduced by Senator McCumber and passed by the Senate on January 15. The twelfth question, which the secretary has answered in detail, is of special significance: What cause, if any, can be given for the sudden extraordinary rise in the retail price of gasoline?

"That a cause for the increased price of gasoline and crude oil other than any present shortage of crude oil must be sought is shown by the report of pipeline company storage in the Appalachian, Lima-Indiana, Illinois and Mid-continent fields," says the secretary.

In ascribing cause for the rise the secretary mentions "the depletion of gasoline stocks due to increased domestic and export demands" and further says that "inquiry today indicates that there is little gasoline in storage;" yet in the next section of the report, after stating that certain surplus crude stocks now being drawn on "to steady the oil market" are "controlled by the storage companies and have been withdrawn from the open market," the secretary declares:

"Since these larger companies have in fact larger stocks than a year ago, it follows that with them the shortage of gasoline-rich crude is at most only threatened and to the extent that these companies are using their 1915 surplus, the threatened shortage is not yet a factor in increasing the cost of gasoline production."

COAL AT $40 A TON.

The tragedy of a nation lies behind the news dispatches announcing that in Italy coal is selling at $40 a ton. The statement suggests some reflections upon the effects of the war, with its blockades, ship seizures and increases in sea-freight rates, upon one of the partners in the quadruple entente.

A large part of the people of Italy even in normal times are too near to poverty for comfort. Under the present stress it may be safely assumed that the specter of want is knocking at many a door, from the southernmost tip of Sicily to the northernmost border of the kingdom.

Before the war, England, in addition to America, was the source of the bulk of Italy's coal supply. In the present crisis English coal has been cut off, because England is conserving her resources even at the expense of her ally, and one reason why coal is selling at $40 a ton in Italy is the enormous increase in ocean freight rates.

BOOZELESS CAR FOR LADIES

Plainly Lighted Tanks Will Not Be Allowed To Ride On Special
Car, But Non-Stewed Gents
May Go As Escorts.

(Huntington Herald.)

Boozeless cars for ladies and "non-stewed" gentlemen escorts, will be put on the interurban line of the Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company beginning next Monday.

This was announced yesterday following a conference between H. R. Wylie, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on street car extension and service, and H. S. Newton, general manager of the street car company.

The plan is practically as originally announced some time ago at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce except that there will be no extra fare for persons who ride on the boozeless cars. The conductor on the "ladies" special will discriminate in a diplomatic way, as among passengers and he will allow no alcoholic tanks aboard, at least if these tanks are lighted up so as to be readily distinguishable.

The first car will start at 9 o'clock Monday morning and will make trips every two hours. Later on if the patronage warrants, the service will be speeded up to a shorter interval.

The service is expected to be an advantage to local merchants who declare Kentucky ladies have been reducing their visits to the local shops because they did not want to ride on a street car in too close proximity with tanked personages.

WEAK ATTEMPT TO BEAT WILLIS.

Columbus, O., February 28.—Failing to obtain the backing of influential Republicans in their plan to oppose Governor Willis as a member of the Ohio "Big Four" delegates at the Chicago national convention, five disgruntled Republicans and a handful of Democrats today selected Matt Glaser of Cincinnati, Dr. S. O. Griffin of Columbus and R. W. Tyler, colored, of Columbus, as candidates for delegates-at-large. Tyler is colored.

Glaser and Griffin filed their declarations of candidacy with the Secretary of State last evening. Both are disappointed patronage seekers. Republicans in the conference, besides Glaser and Griffin, were Lieutenant Governor Arnold and Charles Gerrish of Columbus, a friend of R. F. Wolfe, local newspaper owner, and the close friend of former Governor Cox. Gerrish also is remembered as the man who made the "Standard Oil affidavit" against Governor Willis during the last campaign. M. A. Karshner, former Republican leader in Columbus, who, with Wolfe, has attempted to build up an organization, also was in the conference.

Wolfe, himself, although attempting to conceal his interest in the plan to discredit Governor Willis by having him opposed for delegate-at-large to the national convention, though known to be the prime mover and the backbone of the insurgents, did not trust matters to his lieutenants, but spent an hour in the conference rooms this morning.

Among the Democrats who were invited into the conference were David J. Rockwell of Ravenna, former Building and Loan Inspector, and Byron L. Barger, Safety Director of Columbia.

Effort was made to enlist the support of various former leaders of the Progressive party, but telegrams sent to them failed to bring them to Columbus or to enlist them in the scheme.

It is understood that a number of these Progressives answered that they are in sympathy with the harmony program and that they would have nothing to do with the cabal. It is known that much hope was expressed in their ability to enlist C. L. Knight of Akron, but that they met with rebuff.

A German naval officer is authority for the statement that sixty submarines have been put in hand in German and Belgian yards since the outbreak of the war. Of these, twenty-four are of about 250 tons displacement; twelve of about 800 tons, and twenty-four of about 1,200 tons. According to this authority, more than one-half have passed into service, and this, at the time the statement was made, gives an average rate of completion of about two boats every three weeks. At the present rate of construction it would seem from these figures that the German statement of their putting out one boat a week may be correct.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS FAIL Maysville People Have Found That III Health Follows

Do you ever feel that you simply can't go any further—that you must have rest from that lame and aching back—relief from the constant, deadening feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains? Likely your kidneys are worn and tired and need help. The kidneys work night and day, removing uric acid from the blood and other waste created by expenditure of strength and energy. Naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys and in time the strain generally tells. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to thousands of bad backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys, so users say. Let them do the same for you.

S. O. Duncan, blacksmith, Flemingsburg, Ky., says: "I had severe backaches and my kidneys were out of order, their action being irregular. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I gave them a trial and was soon convinced of their merit. They strengthened my kidneys and back."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Duncan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

Charles Karsner Mills, author, research worker and professor in mental diseases and neurology in the University of Pennsylvania since 1893, has given up his chair in the medical school. Although no reasons were given officially for Dr. Mills' severing of connections with the university, it is said by his associates that he gave up the post because of advancing years and a desire to devote all his time to quiet, private research work.

The First Christian church is always moving. There have been nine additions since the first of the year.

You should drop in on that Teachers' Training class at the First M. E. church, South, on some Thursday night. You will enjoy it.

There will be a cottage prayer meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mr. John Dryden on Forest avenue at 7 o'clock. You are invited.

Mrs. Williams' class of boys in the Second M. E. church, South, is planning a good time at the home of Mr. Joe Rudy on Forest avenue Wednesday night.

May 7 will be here before you know it. Teachers of our Sunday schools, have you planned for the day, the great Sunday School Day in Kentucky? Form your committees and get busy.

Rev. W. B. Campbell of the First M. E. church, South, preached an excellent sermon on the text "He came unto His own and His own received Him not," Sunday night. The sermon was made doubly forcible by the excellent illustrations.

Mr. Charles Evans of Lebanon, Ky., field worker for the Christian Endeavor Societies, will address the young people of the city at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. A most cordial invitation is extended to all. A social hour will follow the close of the address.

Rev. E. H. Carleton of St. Helens, Ky., preached twice Sunday at the Central Presbyterian church. He is a talented young man and the congregation was well pleased with him. He made many warm friends during his brief stay in Maysville and is always sure of a welcome when he returns.

The Methodists of this city are to be highly honored March 23 by the presence of Bishop Anderson. Bishop Anderson is one of the great exponents of Methodism and is worthy of a good hearing. Maysville has had as her guests in the last few weeks men and women of prominence, yet these notables have not been accorded the proper attention.

Last week was a busy one in our churches. The Missionary Society of the Second M. E. church, South, the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Central Presbyterian church, the apron sale by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church, the supper by the First Baptist church were among the events. All were busy and had a good time, and the churches were greatly encouraged. The affairs were all enjoyable and afforded pleasure to the participants.

MIRACULOUS MEMORY OF A FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR

In the March American Magazine James Hay, Jr., gives the following account of a man with a miraculous memory:

"A member of the United States Senate was discussing with a friend in his office some of the incidents that occurred during the administration of President Johnson. During the conversation the Senator referred to an editorial which had been printed in a New York newspaper in March, 1865. 'This editorial,' remarked the Senator, 'was a severe criticism of Johnson. If you don't mind, I'll dictate the first twenty lines of it to my stenographer. You can then keep it for purpose of reference.'

"The stenographer was called and the Senator, without the slightest hesitation dictated twenty or twenty-five lines of the editorial.

"When did you last read this editorial?" inquired the visitor. "I read it on the seventh or the eighth of March in 1865."

"When the caller expressed his utter incredulity that any man could dictate in 1914 the exact wording of a newspaper editorial which he had read in 1865, the stenographer went to the Library of Congress, found the original editorial and discovered that it was a duplicate, word for word, comma for comma, of what the Senator had just dictated.

"To appreciate the extraordinary character of this memory feat, it must be remembered that when this Senator read the editorial in 1865 he was only 14 years of age.

"The man who gave this offhand proof of his marvelous powers of memory was Theodore E. Burton, former United States Senator from Ohio. He has demonstrated in Congress time and again that he can give offhand and accurately the depth of every harbor and every river in the United States, the tonnage of commerce borne by every waterway in the United States and the amount of money that has been spent or authorized to be spent for the improvement of each river and harbor."
